

Secretary Nominee

Meggie Richards bio:

Meggie Richards (She/They) is an interdisciplinary artist from Waverley, Nova Scotia with a BFA from NSCAD University. Richards has always loved process-heavy art disciplines. When it came to ceramics an immediate kinship was found in the relationship between the process and functionality of the pieces. This sparked something in Richards' making that had never been articulated before and thus needed further exploration. Starting her journey with the medium in 2016 Richards has not stopped growing her ceramic practice and fine-tuning her skills. Richards now teaches throwing at NSCAD University in the extended studies program and at the North Preston Community Centre. Meggie Richards is a bright, interpersonal, and charming personality who brings positivity to any job in front of her. Concerning the secretarial position of the NSPG, Richards believes they will provide an uplifted engaging presence while maintaining a keen listening ear. They are excited about the opportunity to work within the organization and plan to bring that excitement and energy to facilitate future projects.
